

Daniel Kruth bio:

Daniel has worked at the camp for three consecutive summers and served as a naturalist for several of the camp's programs. He studied geology in school doing his senior thesis on the history of the Southern Sierra. Daniel is also versed in alpine botany, ornithology, biology, and ecology. Due to his three summers of experience working at the camp, and exploring the cottonwood lakes basin, he has an excellent knowledge of where animals reside, as well as the locations of impressive geologic formations, botanical specimens, sheds and skeletons, artifacts, viewpoints, and—most importantly, how best to take people to these magical places in a manner that is safe for them and the delicate landscape. Furthermore, having functioned as the facilities manager during previous seasons of the workshop he is familiar with the other naturalists, as well as many of the individuals who regularly attend the programs.
